

Dr. Ahmed Al-own, Dean of Graduate Studies and Assistant Professor at the College of Sharia and Islamic Studies, he holds a Ph.D. in the field of jurisprudence and its origins from the International Islamic University Malaysia and is interested in researching Islamic Economics and Islamic finance and ethics. Dr. Ahmed has worked on several committees at the university and college level and with stakeholder partners within the UAE, in the areas of strategic and academic planning, follow-up the implementation of strategic and academic plans, ensuring the quality of the educational process, developing the specifications and capabilities of university graduates, formulating policies and establishing regulations, designing graduate programs for many stakeholder partners, and other committees. He has also participated in a series of academic conferences, as well as those for graduate studies and development, and academic accreditation workshops.